

SEARCH MADE FOR ALLEGED FORGER

Authorities at Scottsburg Enlist Aid of Local Police in Effort to Find Dan Sprenger.

ALSO WANTED AT DECATUR

Traction Car Conductors Say No One of Description Given Boarded Car of Scottsburg.

Local police today were searching for Dan Sprenger alias I. W. Thomas, who is alleged to have passed several forged checks at Scottsburg and Decatur. Officers here were asked to watch for Sprenger as it is believed that he left Scottsburg on a northbound train either Friday night or this morning. All inbound trains and traction cars were watched today but no man answering the description given was aboard any of them.

Marshal Walker of Scottsburg, called the police over long distance telephone Friday night and informed them that a forged check had been discovered and that Spencer was suspected of having uttered it. It was stated that he might walk north to Marshfield and board a car and board an early morning car to this city. Conductors Friday night said that no one of the description given had been passengers on northbound cars Friday night.

Marshal Walker came to Seymour this morning to aid in the search but Spencer had not been located and returned home. He said that the check at Scottsburg was passed on the forged signature of a harness maker there and that Spencer was also wanted at Decatur, according to information he had received. Marshal Walker said that Spencer is believed to have been accompanied by another man but a description of the second man could not be given to the local police. It is supposed that the couple worked together.

Chief of Police McCord and Officer Wallace today visited places where the alleged forger might remain in this city. At one saloon the chief found a stranger who was very nervous and restless while being questioned. His actions gave rise to the supposition that he might be the partner of Spencer but as no description was given he was not held. The stranger was fairly well dressed.

After the chief police officer left the saloon the stranger asked the bartender about the time of the first train to Cincinnati. Chief McCord and Marshal Walker trailed the man to the B. & O. Southwestern passenger station where he boarded an east-bound train. Marshal Walker did not know him.

Spencer is described as being about twenty-five years old and weighing about 148 pounds. He has brown eyes it is reported and was neatly dressed. Because of the accurate description the police would have had no difficulty in picking him out of a crowd if he had come here. It is now believed that he passed this city up, probably knowing that the police would be watching for him.

GIRL INTERESTED IN PLAY FORGETS DINNER

Police Called to Search for Little Brother and Sister Who Were Believed to be Lost.

After buying an order of groceries for dinner for which she was sent by her mother, the little eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, High street, stopped to play with other children and became so intent in the games that she forgot to return home. She left for the grocery store about 11 o'clock and when she failed to return about noon her mother became anxious and sought the assistance of the police. The little girl's brother, aged six, left home earlier in the morning and when he failed to return at the noon hour Mrs. Smith became alarmed and her anxiety increased when her daughter did not bring the groceries at the hour expected. The police searched for some time and finally found the children playing in a yard on High street. They said they had been told to leave several times. The groceries were left on the porch at the home where they were playing.

Beharel Encampment 109 I. O. O. F. held the first of the semi-annual big meetings which have been adopted by the grand encampment of the state, at the I. O. O. F. hall last evening. The Patriarchal degree was conferred upon a class of candidates, following which an elegant supper was served in the dining room. A large crowd was present, many out-of-town Odd Fellows coming to attend. Delegations from Austin, Scottsburg and Brownstown were present.

At the business session of the encampment, the following officers were elected, and will be installed at the first meeting of the new year: C. P. Daniel Morgan; H. P. Clark Hennessey; S. W. Harry Findley; J. W. Frank Brinkman; Scribe, Wm. Meske.

VERNON MAN, IN NOGALES ENGAGEMENT, WOUNDED

Arthur L. Saupe, a Private, Shot in Right Foot—Member of Co. L. of Twelfth Infantry.

Fighting between the American soldiers and the Villista troops at Nogales, Mexico, was given a local touch Friday when Arthur L. Saupe, of Vernon, a member of Company L, Twelfth Infantry, was shot through the right foot during an engagement.

Saupe has been in the service of the regular army for several years. For some time he has been stationed along the border line near the point where the outbreaks of the Mexican bandits have occurred. Another soldier in the same company was probably fatally wounded during the same engagement. Reports today said Saupe is not in a serious condition.

FEW CHANGES AT THE COURT HOUSE

John Loudon Will Succeed Matt Fleetwood as Commissioner First of the Year.

SECOND TERM FOR TREASURER

Commissioners Will Have Appointment of County Highway Superintendent in January.

While several of the present office holders will begin new terms at the first of the new year there will be a few changes in the county official family. Matt Fleetwood will complete his term as county commissioner from the third district at the close of next month and will be succeeded by John Loudon the first of the year. John Belding, county treasurer, will also enter upon his second term in that office the first of the year. Both Loudon and Belding were elected at the election in November 1914.

The county commissioners will hold their regular monthly session the first Monday in December and as usual will meet in special session during the latter part of the month to wind up their work of the year. Mr. Fleetwood will close his official career at that time. Mr. Loudon, commissioner-elect, will take office when the commissioners convene for the first time in January.

Early in January the office of county highway superintendent which is held by Henry Price will be filled. Under the law applications for the position are filed with the county auditor, but Auditor Luedtke said today that thus far no applications had been received in his office. While it is generally believed that Mr. Price will be reelected for another year it is stated that the matter has not yet been formally discussed and consequently no decision reached. It is said that this matter will not likely be taken up before the time arrives for making the appointment.

It is generally understood that there are several men living in Jackson county who would like to hold this office next year and are seriously considering the advisability of filing applications. Usually the men who want the place have a fairly good line on the probably action of the commissioners before the meeting is held and govern themselves accordingly.

A. D. Cobb, the county agent, is also elected for a term of one year, but as he did not take up the work here until last spring his first term of office will not expire for several months. It is stated that he will have no opposition and is slated for reelection. It is pointed out that in this office a certain campaign is laid out and it would be detrimental to the farmers who take advantage of the county agent's services to have frequent changes.

J. B. Cross, county poor farm superintendent, is elected for a term of four years and his term does not expire this year. The county superintendent is elected by the township trustees and the term of County Superintendent Payne will not be completed until June 1917. There will be no changes in the offices of county clerk and auditor.

STATISTICS SHOW LOW SCHOOL COST

Per Capita Cost of Schools of Seymour Show But Few Cities Spend Less—Figures are Explained.

AVERAGE PER STUDENT $24.42

Addition of One or Two New Courses to High School Would Boost Per Capita Cost Considerably.

Superintendent Mott, in a report submitted to the school board this week, presented some interesting statistics on the per capita cost of the Seymour schools, as compared with those of other cities in the state. The figures are taken from the report of the state superintendent of public instruction, and show that in a list of fifty-two cities in the state, only two have a lower per capita cost than Seymour. The figure for this city is $24.42, Warsaw with $24.40, and Mt. Vernon with $24.06, being the only two cities in the state spending less money per capita on their schools. Logansport, with $48.64, leads the state. These figures are exclusive of all payments of debts, real estate, and payments for buildings and other permanent improvements to property.

The list of cities, with the amount per capita each spends on its schools, follows:

Table giving per capita cost of schools in Indiana for 1914-1915, based upon total enrollment of children, after deducting all payments of debts, and payments for real estate, for buildings and other permanent improvements to property. Vernon, $24.06.

In the cost of elementary schools, the Seymour figures are also low, the per capita figure being $19.67, only eight cities in a list of sixty-three are below this city on elementary school expenses. Valparaiso, with a figure of $41.21, spends the most of any city in the state. Columbus is the median city in this list, and spends $22.38; Franklin $25.51, Madison $22.10, Washington $21.43, Jeffersonville $20.17, Bloomington $19.24, Greensburg $25.30, Shelbyville $22.02, and New Albany $18.86. Seymour spends on her high school, (not including the junior high school, which is included in the elementary schools), the per capita sum of $34.90. Only three cities, in a list of sixty-eight, have a lower figure, namely Salem, which spends $33.14, Boonville $32.65, and Warsaw, $32.19. Evansville spends the most, with a figure of $75.04. Columbus spends $41.90, North Vernon $41.39, Jeffersonville $43.13, Bedford $45.35, Rushville $53.67, Washington $59.66, Greensburg $69.37, Peru $74.77. DIGNITARIES OF NATION SEE ARMY-NAVY CLASH

Steady, Drizzling Rain Interferes with Season's Social Event at Polo Grounds.

(By Fred Ferguson, United Press Staff Correspondent).

Polo Grounds, New York, November 27.—In a steady, drizzling rain the army and navy met here this afternoon for their annual football clash before a celebrated, but a water soaked crowd of civilians and military officers. President Wilson and his fiancée, Mrs. Norman Galt, and other national officers witnessed the game.

What promised to be one of the most brilliant affairs of the year was turned into a gray, damp fight by the rain.

Olinphant made the first score of the game in the first period. He smashed through right tackle for a touchdown. Olinphant kicked goal. The former Purdue star was doing remarkable work at all stages of the game. Receiving a punt he made a remarkable run for twenty yards. At the end of the first period the score was: Army 7; Navy 0.

Again in the second period Olinphant wormed his way through the entire navy team from the twenty yard line to the forty-five yard line.

"JUST GOSSIP" IS FINDING OF THE COURT OF INQUIRY

Investigation of Report That High School Girls at Wabash Had Visited a Bawdy House.

Wabash, Ind., November 27.—"Just gossip, that's all."

This is the verdict today following the court of inquiry last night to the report that Wabash high school girls had visited a bawdy house.

At the conclusion of the inquiry in which Prosecuting Attorney McCracken questioned twenty-eight persons, Judge Hunter announced that the high school authorities and students had been entirely vindicated. The report was false, he said, and apparently resulted from gossip of neighbors.

PRESS RIDICULES FORD'S PEACE PLAN

Officialdom and Newspapers in England Say His Plan is For "Adroit Advertising."

THEY ARE NOT RESENTFUL

One High Official Declared Idea Was Favored Only by Enemies Who Want War Ended.

By United Press. London, November 27.—"An advertising scheme," is the general verdict in England on Henry Ford's proposed peace cruise.

Officialdom and the press do not seem resentful of the American millionaire's efforts to end the war, but they are both outspoken in ridiculing his program and a good many are equally free in questioning his sincerity.

"This really is the silliest idea," said one man in high authority. "People who associate themselves with it will find absolutely no sympathy with the plans with sensible individuals in Europe, except among our enemies who apparently want peace. Ford is simply an adroit advertiser," he continued.

CARDINAL GIBBONS THINKS FORD WILL FIND ROCKY WAY

Prelate Says He Admires Detroit Manufacturer for His Roseate Views of Future.

Baltimore, November 27.—Cardinal Gibbons this afternoon gave the United Press the following exclusive statement relative to Henry Ford's peace cruise: "I could not help but admire Mr. Ford for his roseate views of the future, but I told him I fear there are many rocks ahead to impede progress of his journey and to prevent the success of his devout wishes."

Ford and the cardinal talked together for a half hour. They discussed many subjects other than peace. Ford did not present an invitation to the cardinal to accompany the ship on account of the prelate's age.

AT LEAST FORTY WILL GO ON PEACE CRUISE

Announcement is Made of that Number of Replies Received to Ford's Invitation.

New York, November 27.—About forty prominent persons have accepted Henry Ford's invitation to make the trip on his peace ship, it was announced this afternoon. The names may be made public when Ford returns from Baltimore this evening.

Indianapolis, November 27.—Governor Ralston said this afternoon he had not yet replied to Henry Ford's telegraphed invitation.

ELK HUNT IN GRASSY FORK TOWNSHIP IN 1813 RECALLED

Fred Miller Repeats Story Told to Him by His Grandfather, Abram Miller, a Pioneer.

Fred Miller, East Second street, who has contributed several articles on the early history of Jackson county under the name of "The Rambler," recalls that in 1813 or 1814 his grandfather, Abram Miller, and Thomas Ewing, early settlers went into Grassy Fork township to hunt elk.

Mr. Miller told the story as follows:

"Elks were rather scarce in the vicinity of Vallonia where my grandfather and Mr. Ewing lived, and in the fall they went to Grassy Fork township on a hunting trip. I have often heard my grandfather tell about their experiences.

"After hunting for a day or so, they became confused in directions and for three or four days were lost in the wilderness. They succeeded in killing two elk and a cub bear. They ate part of the latter while they were away and loaded the other game on the sled to which was hitched a horse.

"Finally they came to a stream and left the horse standing on the bank while they looked around for a crossing. The horse became tired of standing and started towards Ft. Vallonia. They succeeded in catching up with the horse at or near Shepard's mill, known as the Isominger Mill. They proceeded towards Vallonia with the load of game and a short distance west of the old fort met a party which had started out in search of them. The residents at the fort feared that they had lost their way and arranged a searching party.

"The creek where they left the horse standing is believed to be what is now known as Pond Creek, in Grassy Fork township. It was on this stream that Omri Tuell lived. My grandfather always insisted that he was not lost but "bogued." Nearly all the descendants of Mr. Miller and Mr. Ewing are now dead. Columbus Ewing, who lives in Driftwood township, is a son of Thomas Ewing."

Distress in the Stomach.

There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Padghan, Victor, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.

TWO HUNDRED GALLONS OF OYSTERS SOLD HERE

Local Dealers Anticipating Many Orders for Thanksgiving Bought Heavily.

That the people of Seymour are partial to oysters, especially at the Thanksgiving season, is shown by the quantity that was sold here during the past week. It is conservatively estimated that more than two hundred gallons were handled by the local dealers since Monday of this week. Most of the supply was sold on Tuesday and Wednesday for use on the Thanksgiving table.

Anticipating the heavy demands for the Baltimore product the local dealers bought heavily in order that the supply might be sufficient. Usually there is a scarcity of oysters on the night before Thanksgiving, but this year all orders could be filled Thursday morning, although practically no oysters were carried over until today.

A new method of selling oysters is noticed this year. Instead of having them come in bulk they are shipped direct from Baltimore in pint and quart glass or tin containers. When they are sold in this way they are not handled after they are packed. The majority of the sales this year, however, were made from bulk.

including principal) the figure for the Seymour high school is $4.33. The median city in this respect is Marion, which pays an average of $4.77. Gary leads the state in the matter of salary, the average there being $6.74. Columbus and Bedford each pay $4.55, Washington $5.00, Jeffersonville, $5.04, Greensburg $5.10, Connersville $5.80, Bloomington $4.30, Franklin $4.13, Aurora $3.92.

In speaking of the low per capita cost of the schools in this city, Prof. Mott said that it was, in large part, due to the fact that extension courses, such as commercial and mechanical courses, which have been introduced in other cities, have not been introduced in the local schools. This keeps the cost per capita down considerably, as the addition of any one of these courses would boost the cost of the local schools several places up the list. Several additional courses are desirable, but have not been started on account of insufficient funds. A commercial course is one of the needs of the high school course which the board hopes to be able to add by next year.

In many of the schools where the per capita cost is so much higher than here, complete mechanical courses are in the curriculum. The manual training work in the local schools is limited to a short course in the seventh and eighth grades. The domestic science and household economics course in the high school is one of the most popular in the list, and thorough and efficient work is being done.

"It is the policy of the board not to commence additional courses until they have the money to start them right," said Prof. Mott. "Complete equipment is necessary for efficient work in any course, and we do not want to start until we can start right. The board cannot borrow money for this, and can only use the funds it has to the best advantage."

CHRISTMAS PEACE.

The future alone will decide whether or not Mr. Henry Ford's "Peace Before Christmas" plan will be successful. Americans desire to see European hostilities ended and are hopeful that in the near future permanent truce will be declared. They anxiously await any movement towards that end and will support anyone who is earnestly endeavoring to bring the war to an end.

The Detroit capitalist has made few boasts and has given out none of the details of his plan. The movement is independent of the United States and this country will not even be represented on his Peace Ship, according to a White House announcement. Mr. Ford has made his position known as a peace advocate. He has even stated that he is prepared to wage a campaign against the president's national defense program. Whether he is right or wrong in this the future will again decide.

His present endeavor is concentrated on bringing about peace among the powers of Europe. His significant statement is that he has in his possession communications from influential officials of several governments stating that their countries are ready for the war to end. That, of course, is the first step necessary in a truce campaign. The difficulty will be reached in adjusting and compromising the demands that will be made.

The present terrible war has developed into a financial conflict. It is "the survival of the fittest." The powers that can negotiate the biggest loans will be able to hold out the longest. Mr. Ford is an American capitalist and is influential in financial circles. Although he has not stated he has an excellent opportunity to discuss peace from the business standpoint. Withdrawal of American money would compel a peace declaration. Mr. Ford said that people who believe his plan to be foolhardy have a great surprise coming to them. The surprise, it must be admitted, would be a most gratifying one.

After the long seige of warfare which has ruined several great powers and completely changed European life a peace declaration would be a Christmas celebration which would bring thanksgiving throughout the christianized world. Mr. Ford's plan may fail but he or any one else who is striving towards the prosecution of a successful peace plan can count on the support of the American people.

CHRISTMAS GIVING.

More true pleasure is derived from Christmas giving than from Christmas getting. Christmas is the one time of the year when everybody wants everybody else to be happy. It is the joyous season of the year. A sadder scene cannot be pictured than a cold, dismal, forgotten home on Christmas morning. But it is just such scenes that make charity workers so enthusiastic over their work. They come in personal contact with poverty and the distress that it brings.

It is not the value of the Christmas gift that is so deeply appreciated as the sentiment that is attached to the remembrance. It is the idea that one friend has remembered another at a time when good will reigns supreme throughout the civilized world.

Local people have an opportunity to aid in spreading Christmas cheer by contributing a small amount to the annual Christmas Fund. The money is used for buying food, clothing and perhaps a few toys for the children. There is probably less suffering for want of food in this city than in many other places in Indiana but there is actually a demand from some quarters. A small contribution to the Christmas fund will hardly be felt by the average citizen, yet the aggregate amount will be sufficiently large to do much which charity workers desire to do for the comfort of Seymour people. This is a real home missionary movement. The appeal is made but once a year and your Christmas will be brighter by knowing that you have helped make it happy for someone else.

Reports of the number of killed and wounded in the European war impels us to the belief that the census takers have been careless in their work during the last few years.

In view of the fact that the price of gasoline is soaring, we venture the opinion that Chicago University will be given a handsome Christmas present.

Probably the "Peace Before Christmas" policy could be effectually applied in private life while the holiday shopping campaign is on.

LOCAL MANUFACTURERS TO OPPOSE FREIGHT INCREASE

Committee Appointed to Object to Raising Freight on Interstate Coal Shipments.

At a meeting of the Commercial Club Friday night the proposed increase of five cents per ton in the freight rate on coal shipped from one point to another within the state was discussed. Quite a number of manufacturers and others who buy coal in car load lots were present and expressed themselves as opposed to the proposed increase which has been asked by the railroads. A petition has been on file with the Indiana Public Service Commission for some time and this week notices were sent to city officials and officers of the various chambers of commerce in the state that a hearing would be held at Indianapolis December 20.

In view of the fact that the increase sought will amount to considerable to manufacturers and others who buy coal from the Indiana mines in large quantities they expressed themselves as opposed to the prayer of the railroads and a committee of the local Commercial Club members was named to appear before the Commission on the date announced to object to the increase asked.

Hoosier History in Tabloid.

(Prepared for the United Press by the Centennial Department of the Indiana Historical Commission.)

The alertness and activity of Indiana's war governor were not restricted to his own state. The situation in Kentucky was obviously a delicate one with public sentiment in the balance and a rabid secessionist as governor. Governor Morton gave so much attention to the interests of the union cause, in Kentucky, that the loyal citizens called him the governor of Indiana and Kentucky. On one occasion a meeting of the governors of Indiana, Ohio and Illinois with Gen. McClellan, took place at the Bates house in Indianapolis, to consider the critical situation in the sister state. Morton did much to save Kentucky to the union. George D. Prentice declared him to have been "Kentucky's guardian spirit."

MILLION SHELLS A DAY WERE USED

Enormous Quantities of Explosives
Fired by French in Champagne Campaign.

DESCRIPTION OF GERMAN FRONT

German Positions Protected by Network of Entanglements and Machine Guns.

(By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

With the French Army in Champagne, October 23. (By Mail).—Can either the French or German armies now face to face along the Western front, produce a knockout punch? Doubtless the punch is possible but the more one sees of the present fighting line the more is he impressed with the extreme difficulties of the thing.

Not an officer or man here but is firmly convinced that sooner or later the Allies will smash through the German lines to open country beyond. The Champagne drive proves that the blow must be one of the mightiest wallops that ever set the globe atremble. Some months ago a general remarked:

"We can break through any time, but the effort would be costly and we must make sure it will be worth the price." The French have just broken the enemy's front and reached German reserve lines. The advance was a prodigy of valor after a miracle of preparation; and the gain, fifteen miles long and three miles deep, was worth the price because it proved that the allies' task is not hopeless.

The Battle of Champagne was the first fought with perfected trenches—a condition peculiar to this war. Until last November fighting was in the open, but when the armies dug themselves in it was grenade throwing, trench-mortar bomb-firing and an occasional bayonet charge.

The Champagne battle was the first great general battle after both sides had turned their positions into veritable forts. It will go down in history as one of the world's most important fights. It is estimated that more than a million men were engaged and that the Germans lost more than three times what Napoleon lost at Waterloo. Such a herculean effort being necessary for either side's considerable advance, and Germany's task of defending a Russian front, a Balkan front, and a Western front, makes it impossible for Germany to produce the punch necessary for victory, the French say.

The way from Paris to the fighting front is a series of perfected trenches. To advance, the Germans must storm these trenches one by one. Their capture would be possible only after a cyclonic downpour of explosives. It is said so many shells would be necessary that Germany's output would be taxed to supply this one front.

For three days I have walked the Champagne battlefield, inspecting what were the German positions. Germany's preparations were marvelous. Trenches criss-crossed the plains, machine-guns were everywhere, steel turrets with rapid-fire cannon reinforced already strong positions. Barbed wire underbrushed the forests, and beyond every hill crest were entanglements to catch the advancing French unaware. All sorts of man-killing traps were set, one being a trick trench from first to second line. Having lured the French into this the Germans disappear down an unsuspected offshoot and a hidden machine-gun mows down the French.

The one antidote for this is a terrific cannonade which literally turns the whole fighting front, for miles in both directions and miles back of the first lines, into a shamble from which nothing can escape. The guns must mow down forests, level trenches, blow up turrets and smash entanglements.

The French in Champagne did a good job of it. For three days they rained a million shells a day into this area. Effective fire of French field pieces is about four and a half miles and over that much front they made it so hot for the Germans that a German officer declared they were so helpless under the rain of steel there was nothing to do but to crouch under the crumbling shelters and wait for death.

Like the French, the Germans have many reserve lines of trenches, but the French consider that they have taken the Germans' measure now and that to advance they have only to repeat the Champagne dose. This, they admit, takes time. On the other hand they say they have the time and that the Germans have not; also they can concentrate their efforts while the Germans are compelled to spread their's over a wide area.

You won't find a single officer out here who will claim that the Battle of Champagne, as big and important as it undoubtedly was, will directly effect the end of the war. But he does claim emphatically, that the battle is like a signpost pointing the way to the end, and that by similar thrusts here and there, the wall across the road will crumble one day and behind it will be only the open highway and victory.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE

Springfield, Ill., November 27.—The second, outbreak of foot and mouth disease, which has practically been eradicated, cost the tax payers of the state of Illinois $300,000 according to Dr. O. E. Dyson, state veterinarian. The entire loss from the second outbreak was approximately $600,000. On this sum the Federal government will pay half.

By an appropriation passed by the last legislature $200,000 was set aside to meet any subsequent outbreak of the disease. This sum was appropriated between the first and second outbreaks. The governor cut the sum in half.

Though all infected herds in the state have been killed and the state is practically free from the disease, livestock officials will not lift the regulations in some places for several months as a precautionary measure.

Should the present condition continue for several months all quarantine regulations will be lifted and stock raisers will be free to ship their cattle to any point in the United States.

What followed this speech gave Ambrose Peale one of the biggest surprises of his life. The countess had been watching the conversation eagerly, like a bird, turning her head quickly from Peale to Rodney as they spoke and looking very innocent and chic. Upon the finale of Peale's scheme to "borrow" her money she broke out into perfectly good American.

"Why, you cheap grafter!" she cried indignantly, with a real Bowery accent.

"She spoke English!" cried Rodney, and the countess suddenly covered her mouth with her hand, realizing for the first time that she had given herself away.

"Suffering cats! She's a fake!" Rodney added.

The countess agreed, shrugging her shoulders.

"So is the draft. Gee, you were easy!"

"Well, you're frank anyhow," Rodney said to her.

"Why not? It's all cold now."

"What was the game, kid?" Peale asked her, taking a professional interest.

"I was going to trim you for the $5,000 change from that draft," said the countess.

"But why pick on us?"

"I didn't start out to. You wished it on yourselves," said the countess. "I came to trim your father. You remember I wanted to see him. But I looked so soft you thought you'd grab me off and sell me the French agency of your 13 Soap. I didn't think your father could be as big a boob as you were, so I changed my plans."

"Now I'm going to get the cops to get you," said Peale sternly.

"I should burst into laughter!" cried the countess. "Why, you pikers, I'm on. You're busted. You haven't got any money, and you have got a phony company!"

"Now, see here," expostulated Rodney.

"Preserve it, preserve it," the countess interrupted. "Don't forget I've understood everything you two guys were talking about." To Rodney she said: "Kiss her hand; it's French stuff."

To Peale:

"Ah, there, you little life saver."

To Rodney:

"The money with you—l'argent avec vous? Gee, your French is rotten."

To Peale, who moved away from her: "Shall I kiss her?"

Then she added after a pause:

"Send for the cops and I'll blow the whole thing to the papers."

She rested her gloved fingers coolly on her umbrella handle and surveyed the two boys.

"Well, I guess we're quits. If you had any money I'd ask for a piece of change to keep me quiet. But as it is I can't waste my time."

"You're not French at all?" Rodney queried.

"I was educated over there. Immense, wasn't it? You never tumbled at all."

"But why the foreign stuff?" Peale inquired.

"Well, I can talk good French, but my English is punk," explained the countess.

"You won't say anything now?" Rodney pleaded.

"No, I don't hit a fellow when he's down. Anyhow, we're all in the same class. Three fakes. I'll keep mum if you do."

Oh, money, money!

So much for the $10,000. The $2,500 was no nearer, as was presently to appear, when Ellery Clark stuck his head in the door, grinning, and asked to see Rodney a moment. Peale could not help noticing the change that had come over the countenance of Ellery.

"You seem very beastly pleased, Ellery," he said. "Is everything all right about father?"

"Oh, yes, so to speak, in a way," said Ellery, still grinning.

"What do you mean—so to speak, in a way?" Peale demanded, suddenly suspicious.

Oh, money, money!

And Ellery explained. The trouble was that Ellery couldn't get father on the telephone, and that did make it so much easier, Ellery thought. He did not fancy talking to father about money. That was the truth, and he couldn't get father because father was off on Long Island sound somewhere with his yacht and wouldn't be back till Monday. Apparently Ellery was relieved by this unavoidable postponement, and so he grinned and thought it was all right.

Poor Ambrose, thinking of the $2,500, thought it was all wrong.

The countess, taking in the general appearance of Ellery, thought something might be doing, for she eagerly and promptly dropped her handkerchief. Ellery pounced upon it at once, handing it to her with a flourish.

"Is there no one to take me to my taxi?" she cried next. It was a general invitation, which Ellery accepted on the spot.

"These American buildings are so big I am lost," she went on, with a more marked accent than she had used a moment ago.

"Ellery, you take the countess," suggested Rodney, willing now to get rid of them both.

"Oh, I'd love to," said Ellery. "I say charming, what?"

"Mme. la Comtesse de Beaurien—Ellery Clark," said Rodney, introducing them.

"Dee-lighted," cooed the countess.

"So am I," said Ellery, adding audibly, "Ripping little filly."

"You speak the French?" the countess purred as they went toward the door.

"No, not at all," said Ellery.

"A pity."

"But I can speak German."

"Aber prachvoll—ich liebe das schoene Deutsche."

"Ich auch!"

"Warum laden Sie mich nicht zum Thee ein?"

"Mit dem groessten!"

"Vergnuegen?"

"Yes," said Ellery, relieved, "that's the word—Vergnuegen."

"Au revoir, Mr. Martin," said the countess, looking back at Rodney over her shoulder. "Vous etes trop aimable."

"You are very nice."

"Now, see here," expostulated Rodney.

"Preserve it, preserve it," the countess interrupted. "Don't forget I've understood everything you two guys were talking about." To Rodney she said: "Kiss her hand; it's French stuff."

SLOGAN, "WATCH RUSSIA" IS HEARD IN LONDON

Reported That Eastern Front Will Produce Great Campaign During the Winter.

(By Ed. L. Keen, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, November 27—"Watch Russia!" This is the word that came today from a reliable source.

It lent strength to the rumors that have been circulated among military men for several days that the eastern front will produce one of the greatest campaigns of the war during the winter. Reports that the Germans have given up Mitau and are drawing back along a wide front in the Riga region brought further confirmation.

How to Prevent Croup.

It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.

Cardinal Gibbons Doubtful.

By United Press.

Baltimore, November 27—Cardinal Gibbons today heard the plan of Henry Ford to get the European "soldiers out of the trenches before Christmas," but like President Wilson he withheld judgment on the proposals.

Miss Mary Boas returned to her home in Valonia this morning after a visit with her brother, Ralph Boas.

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help. If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. That we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week. If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember, it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address, MRS. M. NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY

FINED FOR INTOXICATION

Mother Says He Admitted to Her That He Had Told Saloonist That He Was Twenty-One.

Leonard Hays, a nineteen-year-old lad, was arrested last night for intoxication and this morning pleaded guilty before Mayor Ross and was fined $1 and costs.

The boy's mother told the police that she had questioned her son and he had told her where he procured his liquor, but said he had told the saloonist that he was of age. When asked if he had signed a card that he could not have been done that as he can neither read nor write. She wanted to know how she could prevent saloon keepers from selling to her son and was told that it would be necessary to send each one a statement to that effect and that her son was not of age.

"I guess he wants the liquor as bad as the saloon keepers want the money," she said.

If electric bulbs are on your mind, and you want to make a saving, don't miss this "lamp sale."

We have been selling electric bulbs for 22 years, and it is our intention to continue the sale of electric lamps, which has been exceptionally large ever since the new Mazda lamp was put on the market.

We have always sold our lamps on a small margin of profit, but not being able to purchase as a large corporation we could not always meet the prices that have prevailed. But prices are not always the most important issue in purchasing lamps.

The lamp manufacturers wishing to see "us" continue the sale of lamps, have made it possible for you to take advantage of this most wonderful offer which starts Nov. 29th and ends Dec. 4th.

Look at these prices never before advertised in the state of Indiana. All fully guaranteed to you.
